Disclaimer

Please note that the purpose of the relationship with David Gamow is similar to that of Life Coach. David is not a licensed counselor or therapist. If you feel you are in need of clinical psychotherapy or associated expertise, or feel you are at risk for mental health issues that are compromising your health, safety, or wellness, David is not certified to help in those areas. You may want to consult a licensed therapist. David has referrals available to you for this purpose. Please find someone who can help in those ways.

During sessions with David, issues regarding business matters, legal matters, family, health, financial matters and other situations may be part of the discussions, but please understand that David is in no way presenting information that takes the place of consulting with professionals in these fields. While he may suggest actions and attitudes, for example, to reduce stress, actions involving areas of expertise outside of his own should be brought to a trained professional.

This form is a disclaimer in that I, David Gamow, am acting only as a Life Coach. Upon signing this, you are agreeing to hold me harmless as to having represented myself in any of the capacities or positions listed above, as well as acknowledging that I have made it clear I am not treating you in any of the advisory positions listed above, which are outside the scope of my experience and licensing.

I have read and understand this disclaimer:
